

Taking a Stand

Unfortunately, you may occasionally find yourself treated in a manner that is inequitable, unfair, and even insulting. Maybe you already have, and you weren't sure how to handle the situation.

For this exercise, consider the following examples of undesirable treatment. How would you take a stand to improve your situation?

Scenario

1. You are passed over for promotion even though you're the most qualified candidate.

2. You discover you're earning lower pay than a coworker with the same job and equal or lesser qualifications.

3. You are subjected to unchecked microaggressions by one or more coworkers, clients, etc.

4. You're dealing with sexual harassment from a coworker or client.

5. You've reported inequities, but nothing has been done to address them.

What Do You Do?

1.

2.

3.

4.

5.